

LAMBTON PARK

Lambton Park, the ancestral seat of the Earls of Durham, with a heritage stretching back to the 11th Century and a distinct sense of place, is one of the most intriguing historic places in the region.

Over 1,000 acres of historic park and woodland provides an oasis of calm and tranquillity on the edge of the urban fringe; set against a backdrop of dramatic views of Lambton Castle, in its prominent position high above the wooded River Wear Gorge.

The Lambton family have been prominent in the history of the region. The landscape, buildings and archaeology of Lambton Park capture the story of the county.

Over several centuries, the Park has transformed between a largely rural landscape, to that of an environment and community dramatically reshaped by the fortunes of the region's coal industry.

Lambton Park has been, and continues to be, managed as a traditional working estate, with forestry and farming key to the fabric of the landscape, alongside a well-established residential and business community.

The Lambton family's vision for the Estate, is a future which combines conservation of its environment and preservation of its heritage, alongside a diverse working estate with a vibrant community at its heart.

The exciting new development at Lambton Park offers an extraordinary opportunity to become an integral part of a community, on a quintessentially
English country estate.

Lambton Park is an exceptionally special place;
a hidden gem; to be enjoyed and cared for by the people who live and work here, to ensure this unique legacy will flourish for generations to come.

1696:
Marriage combines Harraton with Lambton and Biddick Halls.

Until the 18th Century, Lambton Park, was in fact three, individually owned, smaller estates, Lambton, Harraton and Biddick, each with origins dating back to the 11th Century.

Sir William Lambton of Lambton Hall purchased The Biddick Estate in 1594 and in 1696 Ralph Lambton married the heiress to the Hedworth Estate and Harraton Hall.

The beginnings of the current landscape lie with the first Earl of Durham, John George Lambton, who, in the early 19th Century set about designing the Park in the then popular Picturesque style; an aesthetic ideal of turning gardens and landscapes into views worthy of being painted.

Subsequently, some of the buildings, such as the Castle, its Stables, cottages, gardens and Stud Farm were all designed to fit within this Picturesque landscape.

The first Earl, alongside the visionary Italian architect Ignatius Bonomi, was the driving force behind turning the humble Harraton Hall into a grander castle.

Sadly, the coal mining which had contributed to the Lambton family's wealth over the years, would prove to be the undoing of the Castle itself, as mine shafts beneath started to collapse and parts of the Castle had to be demolished. In the 1930's further parts of the Castle would be demolished due to death duties and spiralling costs. Following its requisition by the Army in the Second World War, the Castle has largely remained empty, but more recently with its romantic and dramatic setting, has formed the backdrop to TV programmes and film sets.

As local land owners, the Lambton family operated a number of coal mines during the 19th Century. The hard work of these miners contributed to the fabric of the Estate which is seen today.

Coal mined from seven pits which made up the Lambton Colliery was initially ferried by horse-drawn wagons to staites on the River Wear, where it would then be carried by boat to Sunderland. The horse-drawn wagons would eventually be replaced by steam power in 1814 and the coal would travel by ship to London and Europe. Lambton Colliery closed completely in 1965 and from the 1990's onwards, the disused colliery structures were removed, and spoil and pit heaps landscaped, leaving very little evidence of an industry that once dominated the region.

Lambton Park has remained relatively private over the years, however there will be many in the region who associate it with fun filled family days out at ‘Lambton Lion Park’.

For just over a decade from 1972 thousands in the region would take advantage of the opportunity to see lions, zebras, camels, elephants, ostriches and baboons living in conditions as near as possible to their natural habitat.

Lambton Park's history is still evolving. The traditional estate enterprises of farming and forestry sit alongside a strong residential and business community, with over 60 houses and offices in converted farm buildings at Bowes Business Park.

Some of the residents have lived on the Estate for many years, with a number being current or retired Lambton employees.

A special combination of community, heritage, landscape and environment sets Lambton Park apart. It is this remarkable resource which will embrace an expanding community in the next chapter of Lambton's story.

Maintaining the unique legacy that is Lambton Park has long been a challenge, given the revenue generated from existing estate enterprises.

In 2016, following careful consideration, approval was given to re-develop an element of Lambton Park to enable a multi-million pound investment in the heritage assets, safeguarding them for generations to come.

A landmark housing development conceived by Ben Pentreath, a nationally renowned architect and interior designer; the first phase of the development will be Victorian in character, inspired by existing residential properties in Lambton Park.

Tree lined avenues and large grassed areas will complement the existing landscape. The Victorian phase will be followed by housing influenced by Georgian and Arts & Crafts styles.

Bowes Business Park is also to be extended, in a sympathetic style, with landscaped parking and pedestrian links to the new housing.

Development plans include an engaging retail and community hub with a range of shops, café and community facilities in a pedestrian friendly environment.

The development will contribute significantly to the renovation and restoration of the unique historic assets within the Park ensuring its sustainable future.

A tangible, unique and powerful sense of place.

Despite significant investment in the Park, the scale of work required for its preservation is considerable and only possible as a consequence of the planning consent which has been granted for the development within the grounds of the former Lion Park.

Lambton Park will, as a result, see a transformatory investment in its built assets, historically important landscape and a network of permissive footpaths.

Lambton Castle is to be brought into a sustainable new use. Following extensive research to identify the works needed to the Castle, an assessment of the historic significance of the fabric of the building has been undertaken. This will be used to inform any proposals for the Castle's conversion and the viable new use of this landmark building.

Associated with this, the adjoining Stables and model farm ("the Byre") will be converted to ensure that this historic core is safeguarded for future generations. The iconic Lamb Bridge has been structurally compromised by subsidence on both river banks. Extensive engineering works are currently being planned to stabilise and conserve the structure.

With over sixty houses on the Estate, a rolling programme to update and preserve these properties is also being put in place.

Lambton Park will now share its wonderful environment, as approximately 15 kilometres of permissive footpaths will be created south of the River Wear, allowing people to enjoy the nature, landscape and heritage of Lambton Park.

The network of footpaths will take in the old Racecourse, ancient woodland and open parkland, including spectacular views along the River Wear Gorge to the Castle. Conveniently located for those who live and work at Lambton, this network will provide a variety of accessible routes for all to enjoy.

The wider Estate is an oasis for nature and wildlife and in spring time the woods are carpeted with daffodils, bluebells and wild garlic. Bird life is varied and the parkland is home to sheep, cattle and horses.

An extensive plan to restore the Picturesque vision of the first Earl is already in hand, with Lambton Park staff carefully working on this sensitive project.

There is a filling station nearby, a convenience store half a mile away in Bournmoor, and several other local shops and services, including a post office, a pharmacy, a dentist and a medical centre, within a 20-minute walk. The adjacent towns widen the choice of local retailers, supermarkets and high street chains. Shops are interspersed with pubs, cafés and restaurants in attractive, traditional market town environments, and an open-air market is held in Chester le Street on Tuesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

Alternative shopping destinations include the picturesque, historic centre of Durham and the vast Metrocentre, which complements an enormous choice of shops with restaurants, a multi-screen Odeon Imax cinema and other leisure amenities.

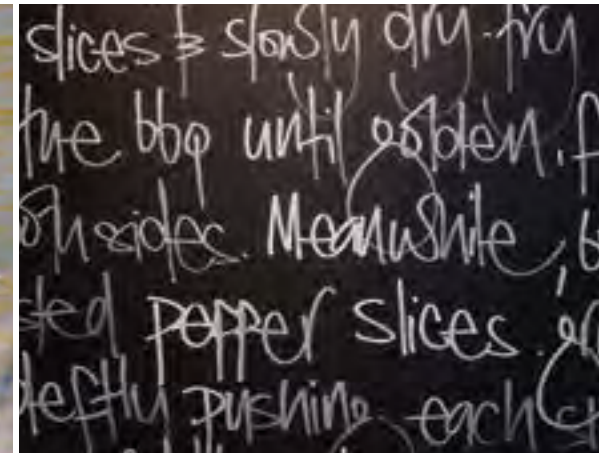

Sports and fitness facilities in the area include Burnmoor Cricket Club, based just a few yards from Lambton Park. Around two miles away, Durham County Cricket Club's Emirates Stadium, Chester le Street Golf Club's beautiful parkland course, the town's Amateur Rowing Club, Durham County's Football ground and the Riverside Sports Pavilion are all located near the delightful Riverside Park. The gyms and swimming pools at Chester le Street Leisure Centre and Bannatyne Health Club also sit within a few yards of Riverside Park.

The area is rich in open green areas and attractions, including the 52-hectare Elba Park, less than a mile away, the magnificent Herrington Country Park with its cycling trails, sculptures, adventure playground and rich wildlife, and the celebrated and engaging Beamish open-air museum of life in the north-east.

Bournmoor Primary School, a few minutes walk from Lambton Park and rated 'Good' by Ofsted, is one of several primary schools in the area, and high schools include Park View Academy situated close to Riverside Park in Chester le Street. There is also a choice of co-educational and single sex private schools in Durham, Newcastle and Sunderland.

With a heritage stretching back to the 11th Century and a distinct sense of place, Lambton Park, the ancestral seat of the Earls of Durham, is one of the most intriguing historic places in the region.

The Lambton family are one of the oldest in the region and the history, landscape, buildings and archaeology of the Park, capture the story of the region.

Whilst Lambton Park has remained relatively private over the years, there will be many in the region who associate it with fun filled family days out.

As a key part of the growing community, there are a number of local retail units to support the growth of the estate which could consist of a cafe, butchers, bakers, delicatessen and convenience store.

We've been building homes since 1934, that's three generations of experience. We've learned a lot about people and that's made a big difference to what we do and how we do it. We're enormously proud of the homes we build, combining traditional craftsmanship with new ideas like low carbon technologies. The big difference is that we don't stop caring once we've finished the building, or when we've sold the house, or even once you've moved in. We're there when you need us, until you're settled, satisfied and inviting your friends round.
